AN
OF THE
RISE, PROGRESS, AND PRESENT STATE
OF THE
MOST HONORABLE AND LOYAL
SOCIETY OF ANCIENT BRITONS.

THE Treasurers and Trustees of this Society, in order to promote and perpetuate their CHARITY-SCHOOL, established for Instructing, Clothing, Maintaining, and Apprenticing poor Children descended of Welsh Parents, born in or near LONDON, who have no PAROCHIAL SETTLEMENT therein, humbly conceiving that, if an Account of the Rise, Progress, and present State of the said School were more generally known, many well-disposed Persons might be induced to contribute their assistance, to uphold so laudable an undertaking, have therefore thought it proper to publish the following account of the same.

In an account of the Rise and Progress of this Society, given by Sir Thomas Jones, Knight, their first Treasurer and Secretary, which was published in the year 1717, it appears that it began to be established on the first of March, 1714, in honor of the birth-day of Her Royal Highness
Caroline,

Caroline, then Princess of Wales, which fortunately happened to be coincident to the anniversary commemoration of the titular saint of the Principality. That His Royal Highness George, then Prince of Wales, upon the address of the Society, presented by them on the 24th of the same month, was pleased to honor the Society with his Patronage, under the style and title of The most Honorable and Loyal Society of Ancient Britons. That, on the said 1st of March, 1714, the Rev. Mr. Philips read the service of the Church of England, and the Rev. Mr. Lewis preached a sermon in the British language, at St. Paul's Covent-Garden, before the Right Rev. Father in God, John, Lord Bishop of Bangor, Lord Almoner to his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, the Right Honorable John, Lord Viscount Lisburne, and many of the Welsh, and other Nobility, Gentry, and Clergy; from whence they proceeded to Haberdashers Hall to dinner. That, before dinner, an ode, composed on the occasion by Mr. Hughes, and set to music by Dr. Pepuch, was sung by Mrs. Margaretta and Mrs. Barbier; and, after dinner, many loyal toasts were drank, and songs sung; particularly one composed and sung by Mr. Durfey, which is recorded in the same publication; as also a poem, (among others presented that day) written by Mr. John Morgan (eldest son of John Morgan, of Tradegar, Esq. then very young, and at school at Monmouth) on the subject of St. David's day. That, having spent the day with great festivity and harmony, they chose several Noblemen and Gentlemen of Dignity, either as Members of Parliament, or as enjoying places of public trust under

under government, to be President and Stewards for the year ensuing. It also appears in the same account, that, at a meeting of the Stewards, held on the 9th of May, 1716, it was resolved, That two Welsh boys, one of North, the other of South Wales, be put out apprentices to trades, and 10*l.* given with each: to which resolution a note is subjoined, that two boys were put out apprentices, and several charities given to other poor persons, natives of the Principality. Sir Thomas (as if foreseeing the future prosperity of that infant Charity) adds, "From your Charity thus excellently employed, may you not expect a nursery of youth educated and brought up in the true principles of religion and virtue, and in fidelity and loyalty? for these excellent purposes are no way so effectually answered as by the education of poor children, who by that means will be made good Christians and good subjects; be taught their duty to God, their king, their country, their neighbours, and themselves; will become useful members of the community, and be enabled to do good in their generation." By other accounts of this Charity, it appears, that, about the year 1718, a few public-spirited gentlemen, of the Principality of Wales, stimulated by the same laudable zeal which gave birth to this noble institution, and observing that many poor children of their unfortunate countrymen, born in or near LONDON, were not entitled to any parochial settlement, and consequently had no opportunity of being instructed in the principles of Christianity (to the gross ignorance of which, idleness, debauchery, and all vices are chiefly owing) entered into a voluntary subscription for the setting up and supporting a school in or near LONDON,

DON, for the Instructing, Clothing, and putting forth Apprentices, poor Children descended of Welsh Parents, born in or near LONDON, as aforesaid, having no Parochial Settlement within the Bills of Mortality; and, in the first place, fixed on a sober, discreet, and capable master, who was directed, that, at the same time he was making the poor children good Christians, and loyal and useful subjects, he would carefully inculcate the great lesson prescribed by our SAVIOUR, of true humility; instruct them in the duties of servants, and in due obedience and subjection to superiors; by means whereof they would be properly prepared, not only to be good apprentices to trades and obedient servants, but better fitted for any other employment or business of use and benefit to the public.

The subscriptions at first being so small as not to answer any great expence, the Society were obliged to take a room near Hatton Garden, and to permit only Twelve poor children to be taken in upon the establishment, until their charitable designs became better known, and the subscriptions increased.

The resolution and perseverance with which this charitable institution was carried on in the beginning, and especially the worthy example of the gentlemen who managed the affairs of the Charity, soon induced many well-disposed persons, as well natives of the Principality, as others, to promote it, either by becoming themselves, or persuading their friends, to be Annual Subscribers, or to give temporary benefactions: and thereupon the Society immediately resolved, that the number of poor children to be taken upon the establishment, establishment, should be agreeable to their first plan, which was forty, and to take a commodious room for the present, until they were enabled to build a school, for the better carrying on their pious design.

In this state the charity went on for some years, and with great pleasure the society saw it answer many of the good purposes for which it was established. Many helpless children not only found present relief by this charity, but were put in the way to escape the corruption they are liable to in the world, and become useful members of the community. They now imagined, that if a school was erected on purpose for poor children, it would be a means of making their good designs more public, and might probably recommend the charity to the farther notice of the well-disposed.

In the year 1737, therefore, the Society began a subscription for erecting a school-house; in which they were generously assisted (to their honor be it spoken) by several noble and worthy persons of the Principality of Wales, and also by many other charitable gentlemen and Ladies. The Society still hoping that in so charitable an undertaking they should be liberally assisted, fixed on a piece of ground on Clerkenwell-Green, belonging to a certain honorable gentleman, and contracted with a builder to erect a school; which, when finished, and the account for building, as also an amount of subscription towards the undertaking, being laid before the Society, they, with great concern, found a deficiency of 341*l.* 16*s.*

And though this great debt has since been discharged by one hundred pounds given by Mr.

Ynyr

Ynyr Lloyd, then Treasurer, at an annuity of five per cent. determinable on one life, and the bounty of several worthy benefactors, yet the Society with the utmost regret observed, that they could not carry on their charitable design to a proper extent, without the farther assistance of the well-disposed, which they most earnestly requested, for the following reasons :

I. Because there were many more objects offered, who were entitled to this charity, to whom the Society could afford nothing more than their pity and compassion ; being unable to relieve them out of their then subscriptions, &c. And as the relief of such distressed objects was much at their hearts, they were sincerely and earnestly desirous to see the said charity enlarged : the usefulness whereof, and the great good it has since done, appears by the secretary's account hereunto annexed.

II. Because, without this charitable support, many children, descended of Welsh parents, born in or near LONDON, who may be truly said to be naked, wretched and poor, utterly unable to help themselves ; whilst those, whose duty and affections would have been naturally prompted to assist them, were either dead, or as poor and destitute as themselves ; and, having no PAROCHIAL SETTLEMENT, must become objects of want and misery, and be liable to be ruined through ignorance and irreligion.

The Society, in the year 1769, on the recommendation of several worthy ladies, enlarged their plan, and took SIX GIRLS into the house, to be boarded, educated, and clothed on the establishment, and when of proper age, to be put out by the charity to trade or servitude.

The

The patronage afforded this charity, by His Royal Highness the Prince of WALES, the nobility, gentry, and public in general, induced the Treasurer and Trustees, in the year 1771, to attempt a further enlargement of their plan, and to undertake, in future, the Education, and entire Maintenance, of a certain number of Boys and Girls. In this they have been greatly encouraged, and very generously assisted; and for which the Treasurer and Trustees, in the name of the whole SOCIETY, beg Leave to return their sincere thanks.

As the school-house on Clerkenwell-Green would not admit of enlargement sufficient for this purpose, a piece of freehold ground has been purchased and secured to the use of the charity.—It stands on the right hand side of the road from Gray's Inn Lane to Pancras.

On this pleasant airy spot is now erected and finished a School-house, and other proper buildings, sufficient to accommodate ONE HUNDRED CHILDREN.—The expence of purchasing and securing the ground; erecting, finishing, and furnishing the school-house and building, with the brick wall round the same, and garden; levelling the ground, and planting fruit-trees, &c. in the garden, amounted to 369*l.* 18*s.* 11*d.*

As a convincing proof that the reasons before stated, still exist, as incentives to prompt the benevolent heart to give full vigour and support to so laudable an undertaking; it may be necessary to state, that notwithstanding the School, within these few years, hath been augmented to the number of 69 Boys and 25 Girls, yet, lamentable it is to say, that for some time past, and particularly at the election in October last, there were upwards of 50 poor and distressed objects, candidates for four vacancies—many of whom had been petitioners for years, and some so long that their advance in age was likely to preclude them from the benefit of admission. The Society, therefore, impelled by these pressing calls of humanity, deem it their duty to make a further augmentation as soon as possible.

The expence of supporting the school, and the present number of children, NINETY-FOUR, amounts to upwards of 1400*l.* per annum.

To defray and support such expence, and to extend the benefit of the Charity to the other distressed objects, the Society beg leave to solicit the liberal assistance of a benevolent public, and especially of their countrymen of the PRINCIPALITY; as an institution of this kind is highly deserving of their notice and support on the principles of patriotism, humanity, and religion: an institution which, whilst well conducted, must relieve multitudes of helpless children as well as their parents; afford benefit and advantage to the public in general; reflect great honor, and yield the most solid satisfaction, to all who contribute to its support.

Having thus given a short account of the rise, progress, and present state of the Welsh Charity-School, the President, Vice-Presidents, Treasurers, Governors, and Trustees, in the name of the SOCIETY, humbly hope, for the foregoing considerations, that the well-disposed and charitable among the nobility, gentry, and others, will contribute their assistance; and that all True and Ancient BRITONS in particular, will now exert that spirit of charity, for which their generous forefathers were so remarkable, and let the Benefaction of the hand display the benevolence of the heart, heart, by assisting the Society to rescue from want and misery, both here and hereafter, the distressed children of many of their poor countrymen.

 The TREASURERS, GOVERNORS, and TRUSTEES, with great pleasure and satisfaction, beg leave to observe, that many who have had their education, and were apprenticed out by this Charity, live in credit and reputation, and are now become subscribers and benefactors to the same: others, in testimony of their gratitude, have left legacies in their Wills; one in particular, named Edward Williams, left the residue of his fortune (after paying the several legacies bequeathed by his will) amounting to the sum of 195*l.* 16*s.* which has been wholly paid, and afforded great assistance towards building the present school-house.

All persons who are disposed to contribute to the Support of this Charity, by their WILL and TESTAMENT, are desired to do it in the following Manner:

ITEM, I give and bequeath unto A. B. and C. D. the sum of _____ upon Trust, and to the intent that they, or either of them, do pay the same to the Treasurer, or Treasurers, for the time being, of the Welsh Charity-School, in Gray's-Inn Road, London; which said sum of _____ I will and desire may be paid out of my personal estate, and applied towards the support of the said Charity-School.

N. B. The giving of land; or the giving of money or stock by will, with directions to purchase land for the benefit of this Charity, becomes void by the statute of Mortmain; but money or stock may be given by will without such directions.
